Problem Statement

Users are exhausted and frazzled because there doesn't appear to be enough time to utilize or enjoy all of the campus resources and/or events offered to them. A solution should provide users with an organized list of the choicest, optimal activities on campus.

Who is experiencing the problem?

All college students (in particular freshman students)

What is the problem?

Too many college activities to choose from

Where does the problem present itself?

On and around college campuses

Why does it matter?

Improper time management for students can lead to over frustration and burnout, which could severely affect their academic performance and overall happiness
